“The ERP system is one of the strongest business applications. Be part of this business improvement trend. The academy boosts your competitiveness and employability in the ERP job market.”

José Humberto Ablanedo Rosas, Ph.D.
Associate Professor of Operations and Supply Chain Management

“The academy and its resources helped me understand what I wanted to do with my career after graduation. Resources provided by the academy, such as SAP software experience and networking opportunities, helped me land my ideal job at Lockheed Martin.”

Daniela Sifuentes
Subcontract Administrator Associate

“Opportunities provided by the academy gave me confidence with SAP software and allowed me to network closely with leaders from Lockheed Martin, which ultimately led to my internship. I’m proud to say that I’ve received an offer to return full-time once I graduate.”

Martin Herrera Jr.
ERP Academy Student

WHAT IS ERP?

Enterprise Resource Planning (ERP) refers to the integration of multiple business processes across an organization and encompasses areas such as accounting, project management, supply chain operations, and procurement. Organizations rely on ERP software to link these processes within a unified system, allowing for improved data flow, integrity, and visibility, thereby enhancing efficiency and decision making across the entire organization.

SAP, the market leader in ERP systems, is at the heart of today's business and technology revolution. With the use of SAP, enterprises like Lockheed Martin can exchange information with suppliers, logistics managers, and across multiple units of the business quickly and efficiently.

The SAP University Alliance program provides the curriculum for the certificate program, which includes a blended learning model to ensure that students are able to connect concepts to practice.
