VISITOR CENTER A REALITY

Rio Bosque Wetlands Park has seen a flurry of activity these past 3 months. The biggest change is the construction of the new visitor center/education shelter. A wonderful addition for all Park visitors, the facility was designed with school groups especially in mind.

There are still a few unfinished details (like the water system), but the structure is in place. Wright & Dalbin Architects designed this striking facility. The general contractor was F. T. James Construction. Sincere thanks go to G & J Electric of Las Cruces for donating the electrical work, to El Paso Electric Company for providing electric service to the site, and to the Planning and Construction Section of UTEP's Facilities Services for managing the project. Finally, special thanks are due The Meadows Foundation of Dallas, Texas, whose support made this project possible. ✈

BOSQUE TRAIL MOVES AHEAD

We've also been doing some trail building. In June, the City of El Paso's Parks and Recreation Department and the Friends of the Rio Bosque teamed up to finish surfacing 1100 feet of the Bosque Trail, the Park's hard-surfaced loop trail. Thanks go to both groups and to the Paso del Norte Health Foundation, whose support made it all possible. The trail is open for use, but there is still one 1100-foot segment that is unsurfaced. We are currently seeking funding to complete it. ✈

RESTORATION REPORT

Rio Bosque continues to be a dry place. Through the first 6 months of 2004, the Park has received water for only 12 days. Groundwater levels at most of our monitoring wells have hit all-time lows since we began data collection in 2001.

some signs of stress, but all are OK. The reason? The Friends of the Rio Bosque bring water to them weekly with their trusty water trailer. ✂

NATURE NOTES

Painted Buntings are one of the signature birds of Rio Bosque. They are also a good indicator of the progress of our restoration efforts. These multi-hued, summer-resident songbirds nest in the City of El Paso only at the Park. Twenty years ago, to find Painted Buntings at Rio Bosque you looked in the saltcedar stands. Today, though they are still found in saltcedar, the best places to look are stands of native tornillo, which is rapidly becoming more prominent as we remove the exotic saltcedar.

The most impressive floral displays at the Park come in late April and early May when bitterweed (Hymenoxys odorata) is in bloom. This past spring offered the best show yet. The western half of Wetland Cell 1 was a 20-25-acre sea of yellow flowers. Smaller patches were scattered along the margins of Cell 2 and near our main water channel. All of the areas with extensive bitterweed blooms experienced brief, very shallow flooding or wetting during the winter. ✂
