

Dr. Salma Elwazeer, a pediatric and public health dentist, is an assistant professor and Director of Public Health and Interprofessional Education at Hunt School of Dental Medicine, with a cross-appointment at Foster School of Medicine. A Diplomate of the American Board of Dental Public Health, she has 15+ years of experience in clinical dentistry, academia, and public health. She leads community-based dental education and has contributed to over 50 publications, presentations, and workshops nationwide. Dr. Elwazeer is appointed to a national task force for enhancing public health education and serves on another focused on improving access to care for children with special healthcare needs. She holds leadership roles in the American Association of Public Health Dentistry, the American Public Health Association, and the American Dental Education Association. She was awarded 1st place for the inaugural Texas Tech Health EP Faculty IPE Leadership Award and the 2025 Chancellor Council Distinguished Teaching Award, the highest Faculty honor in the Texas Tech University System. A fellow of the Royal Society of Public Health, the American College of Dentists, and the International College of Dentists, she continues to advance oral health education, service, and interdisciplinary collaboration.