ACADEMIC DISHONESTY POLICY
University of Texas at El Paso

It is the philosophy of the University of Texas at El Paso that academic dishonesty is a completely unacceptable mode of conduct and will not be tolerated in any form. All persons involved in academic dishonesty will be disciplined in accordance with University regulations and procedures.

Scholastic dishonesty includes but is not limited to cheating, plagiarism, collusion, submission for credit of any work or materials that are attributable in whole or in part to another person, taking an examination for another person, or any act designed to give unfair advantage to a student or the attempt to commit such acts.

HONOR CODE STATEMENT
UTEP Social Work Department

UTEP's policies on academic dishonesty are important to the Social Work Program. Social work, like other professions, is based on ethics and values. A key professional value identified by the Code of Ethics of the National Association of Social Workers (NASW), is integrity. Synonyms for integrity are honor, honesty, truthfulness, veracity, reliability and uprightness.

The Social Work Program supports a student Honor Code. The student Honor Code acknowledges that when a student is unethical it hurts not only other students, but damages the unethical student as well. As a group, social workers are responsible for monitoring the professional conduct of their peers. The Honor Code is the mechanism by which UTEP social work students protect the integrity of the group. When a person ignores others' unethical behavior, it weakens our profession and puts future clients at risk.

Integrity is important to Social Workers because we encounter people when they are most vulnerable. Also, our input as professionals can change the course of people's lives. Based on our verbal or written opinions people can be labeled as having emotional issues, convicted of breaking laws, have their children removed from the home, be committed for observation for psychiatric problems, and so forth. It is important that social workers are competent to assess a person, diligent about producing accurate documentation, and respectful of even their most vulnerable or difficult clients.

In response to UTEP's policies on academic dishonesty, all suspected cases of academic dishonesty will be referred to the Office of Student Life. The Office of Student Life can impose various sanctions including giving a student a grade of "F" in a course, or suspension or dismissal from the university, among others.

The Social Work Department may impose additional sanctions for academic dishonesty and may impose sanctions for failure to comply with the NASW Code of Ethics, including dismissal from the Bachelor of Social Work program, or denial of entry into the program and/or field practicum. In addition to requiring students to avoid academic dishonesty themselves and to comply with the NASW Code of Ethics, when a person ignores others' unethical behavior it is demonstrates a lack of integrity.

If you suspect unethical behavior such as academic dishonesty, please report it to your instructor. Your instructor will take action as outlined in the Social Work Department's Student Manual and/or of the University (available on the UTEP Office of Student Life web site).

INFORMATION ABOUT CRIMINAL BACKGROUND CHECKS AND DRUG SCREENING

The UTEP Department of Social Work does not require that students undergo a criminal background check or drug screening for admission into the program. Please be advised that some field practicum agencies may require students to get a criminal background check or to take drug screenings or other medical tests as a prerequisite to the field practicum with that agency. Also, the Texas State Board of Social Work Examiners asks applicants for Social Work licenses if they have committed a felony, although having done so does not preclude licensure. Additionally, organizations that employ social workers may require criminal background checks as part of the process of applying for jobs.
