

Center for Law & Human Behavior

The University of Texas at El Paso

Cordially invites our local homeland security enterprise stakeholders to attend the Homeland Security Symposium titled:

Research on Investigative Interviewing and Interrogation: How Evidence-Based Practice Can Improve Outcomes

About this Symposium

This presentation will review the current state of research on investigative interviewing methods. Rapport-based interviewing will be discussed, particularly the effective use of rapport-building skills and how to measure rapport in an investigative interview. The presenter will also discuss the limitations of research on investigative interviewing and the importance of collaborations between scientists and practitioners in improving the use of evidence-based interviewing

When: March 31, 2016

Time: 9:00AM to 1:00PM

Where: Bioscience Research Building Auditorium

RSVP by: March 24, 2016

Seating is limited

To RSVP for this event please send an email to clhb@utep.edu with your name, agency name, and contact information.

Once your RSVP is confirmed, we will provide information regarding program agenda, campus map and building location, temporary on-campus parking passes for this event, and instructor's biographical information.

For more information regarding this event please contact Victor M. Manjarrez, Jr. at (915) 747-7812 or vmmanjarrez@utep.edu.

This endeavor is funded by the DHS Science and Technology Directorate, Office of University Programs.

Who should attend?

Although this symposium is open to all stakeholders who are interested in the subject matter, it is highly recommended for those who conduct interviews and investigations.