A MESSAGE FROM THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR | Almost Speechless

Hello to you, our Members!

There are simply not enough words to describe the Spring and Summer terms here at our OLLI. I'm almost speechless almost ...with gratitude for the resiliency and support that our members, volunteers, staff, Extended University and Osher National Resource Center have given to bring us to this pivotal point in our sustainability and growth. Let me simply say "Thank you!"

We moved our OLLI office and lounge on December 20, 2024- following our Annual Luncheon- and launched directly into 2025 with Spring registrations, a satellite lounge, and split responsibilities to two locations. AND...WE DID IT! While we did not meet our membership goal of 550 this year, we overcame challenging logistics, still welcomed new members, grieved for those that passed before us, forged new partnerships in our communities, and moved forward with engaging programming and activities.

Our fall term is ahead of us and we will grow beyond our own expectations with your continued help, fresh ideas, and our centralized classrooms in our new home at Memorial Gym with our wonderfully organic and welcoming lounge.

Let's create connections, build our membership, grow and get even better together!

Lynn Provenzano

WORDS FROM THE COORDINATION COUNCIL CHAIR | Thanks

As the chair of the OLLI Coordination Council, I thank you all for attending OLLI classes and participating in clubs and tours.

I hope you enjoyed the variety of classes. We always want your feedback on what went well and what did not meet your expectations. We strive to bring you interesting classes, tours and clubs.

I am taking this opportunity to thank Lynn Provenzano for her ongoing efforts, tireless efforts and love for OLLI. I would hope all of us could capture some of her energy and excitement - she inspires me.

We all have a stake in OLLI's success! Please spread the word, bring in new members

Thank you for your support. See you soon.

A MESSAGE FROM THE DEAN | Interaction and Unlearning

In July, I was in Portland, Oregon, for the Summit for Online Leadership and Administration Conference. The weather was great, the people were friendly, and the wine was amazing! One of the conference's keynote presentations stuck with me in a number of ways, especially with these two significant thoughts that I share with you. Heather E. McGowen is the author of two books: The Empathy Advantage and The Adaptation Advantage. Her fast-paced, entertaining, and thought-provoking presentation was called: "Leading through Uncertainty:

The Curiosity Advantage." Out of the many a-ha moments she shared with the audience, I'll relay two that particularly resonated with who we are at OLLI.

First, the world is experiencing a loneliness epidemic. McGowen cited two 2023 reports from the Surgeon General and the World Health Organization to tell us that 13-50% of adults report loneliness. Loneliness can lead to destructive behaviors. She said, simply, that loneliness=15 cigarettes a day. Both of these reports emphasize the need for and importance of social connection. But beyond that, consider how easy it is to check out at the grocery store, pass someone on the sidewalk, or pick up lunch at a drive through with no engagement, no eye contact, and very few words exchanged. I've probably repeated 80 times an easy- to-remember phrase she shared: "make every transaction an interaction." I suspect many of us at OLLI do this naturally—we wouldn't want to participate in OLLI if we weren't social creatures! Yet, it reminded me to be more deliberate about saying hello, asking how someone's day is going, and, at the very least, flashing a friendly smile.

The second big takeaway is that there is power in unlearning, which, she says, is more difficult than learning. However, adapting to the constant changes in the world around us requires that we be willing to unlearn what we think we already know. She cited Alvin Toffler (from 1970!) who said that "The illiterate of the twenty-first century will not be those who cannot read and write, but those who cannot learn, unlearn, and relearn." The benefits of unlearning are not just adapting more effectively to our environments, but to also move us from a zone of certainty to a zone of curiosity. The zone of curiosity opens us to listening openly to others; wanting to understand their views and experiences; and learning from, with, and about them. Again, I cannot think of a better way to capture the spirit of OLLI where curiosity never gets old!

As we head into another fall semester, I encourage all of us to reflect on the possibility of unlearning some of what we think we most certainly know to find out what we can relearn in its place. And, of course, make every transaction a meaningful interaction.

In the back of my dad's blue and white Scottsdale pick up with my two brothers and Bronson from next door, and Eloy who lived up the street in the house with big windows and a black door. My dad stopped at the corner where the new family moved in. He talked to a dad and three boys ran to the truck and hopped in the back. My dad told us their names, and we drove around our neighborhood to pick up more friends to play baseball at Album Park.

I always brought water from the kitchen faucet in one of my mom's Tupperware containers with ice cubes from the plastic ice tray. The boys drank from the red Coleman thermos my dad filled with the water house.

Bronson was good at batting. My older brother was the best center fielder. My younger brother played second base and was the fastest runner. Eloy always wanted to pitch, but he wasn't very good at it. Everyone else played where my dad, the coach, put them. My dad taught the new kids how to throw a baseball and how to catch. I played third base and never could hide my smile in the middle of my sweaty face when Coach let me bat before the boys and called each pitch in my favor.

Late July of 2023 I took a trip to Padova, Italy to visit my daughter and her family. I flew from Dallas to Rome where my family was waiting for me. We drove from Rome to Padova. It was a 4-hour drive however, a very enjoyable trip stopping at some beautiful villages along the road.

Days later after our arrival in Padova we got on the road and traveled to Falcade Province of Belluno, Italy in the Veneto region where my daughter, husband and my two beautiful granddaughters spend every year the whole month of August.

Falcade lies in a sunny valley surrounded by wonderful Dolomite mountains and the Chivita mountains. Almost every day we would go climbing up the Dolomite mountains which feature some of the most beautiful landscapes anywhere with vertical walls, sheer cliffs and a high density of narrow, deep and long villages. It was a memorable trip not only because of the beauty that surrounded everywhere we went but most importantly my happiness of enjoying all that beauty with my beloved family.

An Unremarkable Life

The Most interesting person I have met.

She was my grandmother on my father's side of the family.

Even as a child, and although at that point in my life, I did not know the word, let alone the meaning of the expression "unremarkable", there was something within me that kept navigating into the realm of the concept of "unremarkableness."

Her days were spent on a rocking chair positioned in such a way that the sky was her whole and only view. In the early morning hours, the church bells resounded so loudly that they often woke me up. At 5:00 am, every morning, my grandmother was ready to faithfully attend mass.

She, my grandmother, was strict about the teachings of the catechism, God and evil. Her sermons to all of us, her grandchildren, were brutal. Without even pronouncing the words, she constantly reminded us of the importance of duty, honesty, fairness and empathy, particularly when we, the children, fought with words and fists when trying to decide who had been the first to cross an imaginary finish line.

Telling on another child, usually one of our cousins, was not allowed. She would send us both to a nearby corner of the patio, where she kept an eye on us, demanding that we talk. And we could not go back to the playing group unless we were holding hands and smiling, even if it was a fake smile, something that we learned very quickly from the older kids.

Being late was not an option. Whenever she was expecting us to be ready for whatever reason, usually visits to the church during Easter and Christmas, we knew that our faces and hands had to be clean, as well as our dresses and shoes.

That "unremarkable" life left such "REMARKABLE" imprints on my being, that even today my sense of ethics in work, daily life, and friendship is guided by those wise words spoken so many years ago in a world which does not resemble the world we live in today.

A Bloody Mess

The only thing that sucked on my body that night were thirsty North African mosquitos, which feasted fiercely on my blood in the cheap, un-air-conditioned hotel near the market. After drinking their fill, they were so heavy I could easily smash them on the walls of the room. I wonder what the cleaning crew thought the next morning when they saw all the blood spatters.

For me Tangier was a lot like Mexico, which I had visited the previous summer. Busy pedestrian markets. Bright vibrant colors assaulting the eye. Strange smells. Poverty juxtaposed with privilege.

Tangier is said to be “the most colonized place in Africa”. My visit was just 8 years after the legendary “international zone” where anyone could buy anything was absorbed back into the kingdom. After decades of occupation and division by French, Spanish, British, and later after WWII American interests – and weakly overseen by the King – it still retained some of its exotic patina of danger. That patina has faded some in the ensuing 61 years! But Tangier still trades on its somewhat notorious past.

As I have since visited some 30 plus countries in the subsequent decades, I believe myself to have been protected variously by youth, innocence, age, poverty, privilege, experience and naivety. I have had my pocket picked in Naples, and the Mexico City Metro (both times losing a camera), survived a minor bus accident in Colombia, caught a legendary case of diarrhea in the Amazon, and accidentally hit a submerged sea lion on the head with a paddle while kayaking off the coast of Patagonia. I have slept on the ground in a Guatemalan refugee encampment in Chiapas, and hitchhiked one rainy night looking for a ride from Huehuetenango to Solola. We gave up and found a hotel in town where the proprietor told us, “No one goes down that road at night, señor!”

The term “slow travel” still appeals greatly to me, though at 81, I’ll “settle” for the speed of a jet since time is short, or for the luxury of a cruise ship since I am not so fast or tough as I once was.

Home is pretty good too.

Marie Livingston

“We’re going to Germany!” The three of us danced around excitedly. Well, first we had to get to New York City. Our Dad was already over there. The three of us were going on a long road trip without Mom. She was in for it driving three boisterous children across the Southern US and up the East Coast. We had to take that route to visit all our relatives along the way. After all we were going to be gone for three years.

We arrived in New York in a very hot and humid August. Our car had to be delivered to the ship that would take it to Germany. We were loaded onto a plane. The year was 1958 and our plane was not a jet, it had propellers. Not that we were expecting a jet, we were just three kids and their Mom who had never flown anywhere before.

Our first stop was Newfoundland to fuel up for the flight across the Atlantic. We had been across the Pacific Ocean on a ship when we were younger. We were excited and nervous about flying over the water at night. The next morning looking out the window, there were clouds all the way to the horizon. My nine-year-old brother looked back at Mom and asked if we’re dead yet because with that many clouds we must be in heaven.

Andy Mendoza

I’ve marveled at the geometry and construction of the aircraft and its engines. And there is a certain level of uneasiness and wonder at the process of being propelled through the air at an incredible velocity.

I watch some of the others, and they seem so calm and sedate; as if the process of flying through the air is anything but a means of getting there.

To me, I took the feelings of flying and somehow merged them with my experience of learning about a new place and the inhabitants. It was a beautiful experience, but mostly the latter part.

And I too after a while became used to the process of flying, but it had only a slight resemblance to what I felt the very first time.

Magic In Maya Lands

I was eighteen, accompanied by my sister and best friend.

The three of us traveled to Maya lands, so rich with history and charm.

The pyramids were impressive—but then: WOW, BAM!

I gazed at the turquoise blue water and white sand. My soul felt nourished and my heart sang.

Later, snorkeling in crystalline sea water surrounded by fluorescent fish, I felt amazement. It was divine! Like a psychedelic dream come true, Cancun, in colors I never knew.

Spotlight | Intergenerational Bridges: On Campus

"The intergenerational discussions were a great experience for me. I think that it's important for my generation to get more connected with the older generation in order to learn from their experiences and help shape the healthcare system into something that benefits everybody. The meetings really opened my eyes and helped me learn a lot from our older and wiser counterparts.

Samuel A. Womack, UTEP Student

"It was a valuable experience to work in the intergenerational technology project and experience the connection with the students to contribute to what would certainly be a valuable outcome of their work. They will be the designers of the future for us."

Alfredo Arroyo, OLLI Member

OLLI's intergenerational collaborations have become inspirational for OLLI members, UTEP faculty and students!

KAREN FRASER, Volunteer Coordination, Ex-officio Advisor

Hi, ALL.

I have been around for a while but would like to share a little about how I managed to be here now. I joined OLLI in 2014 as a retired RN, former clinical analyst for a hospital computerized patient information system and transplant from Illinois via Alabama to be near my daughter and her family. Both my daughter and son-in-law are faculty with UTEP. I became volunteer coordinator in July 2019 and then moved upward through the Advisory Board serving as Presiding Chair January 2023 to January 2025. I am now the Ex-officio Advisor for the newly named Coordination Council and will continue as volunteer coordinator until January 2026.

My other enjoyment with OLLI is hybrid class hosting and helping train others for hosting, as well as helping with social events for members and public events on behalf of OLLI. I truly cherish interacting with many of you in OLLI offerings and look forward to seeing you again this Fall.

As always, I thank our volunteer team, office staff, Coordination Council members and Extended University for their collaboration and ongoing support. And a special hug to my new (and now not so new) friends in El Paso.

Spring/Summer Volunteer Committee Members: Liz Highsmith, Donna Jerman, Irene Medina, Andy Mendoza, Don Smelser and Leanne von Mittenwald (ad hoc), and Karen Fraser (chair)

SONYA VILLA-SAENZ, Extended University Advisor

This past year has been a roller coaster ride that consisted of many changes, possibilities and good outcomes at OLLI. OLLI members have been a great support and Extended University appreciates them. We look forward to another year of great outcomes.

We all work together across Extended University. OLLI is part of this family. Thank you!

Highlights | OLLI COORDINATION COUNCIL

LYNN PROVENZANO, Executive Director, Marketing & Curriculum Chairs... and a note on Finance

We kept the Marketing and Curriculum Committees relatively quiet this past Spring and Summer as we adjusted to the newer routines and busyness that came from working in multiple locations. That doesn't mean that brainstorming and networking didn't occur. They did, and our focus was pointed and efficient. That brings us to a new era of committee work as the OLLI Coordination Council ramps up. Marketing and Curriculum will be active with hands-on development of lecture series, networking and volunteerism. UTEP's Alumni Association has stepped up to shout about OLLI. The ongoing missions of Marketing and Curriculum committees will be to seek new opportunities to recruit, engage and enlighten members.

On a financial note... We will end this academic year on a positive note and in the best financial standing that we have had in the last five years. It's been a long and challenging journey to get to this point. Financial support came from individual donations AND from memberships and registrations. We've worked lean with the support of volunteers to keep expenses in check. The outcome places us in a good position for growth and sustainability. We need to stay on solid standing. Let's stay the course and navigate through every opportunity to build our successes.

A big welcome to John Schmid as our OLLI Coordination Council Member for Financial Oversight!

Marketing Committee: Mary Ann Snider, Monica Gomez, Beth Ford and Lynn Provenzano (chair)

Curriculum Committee: Marie Livingston, Ruth Bassett, Leanne von Mittenwald, Linda Shubeck, Bob Warach, and Lynn Provenzano (chair)

Finance: Lynn Provenzano, John Schmid and Sonya Villa-Saenz
