Parent of student in Kidz on Campus Summer Camps

[My kids’ favorite classes were] Zoo Kids, Monster Science, Art Movements and Cartooning. The instructors were awesome and my kids raved about all the activities they got to do. Ms. Ramos’ animal encounters were a favorite.”
In the summer of 2021, Professional and Public Programs’ Youth Programs and Camps launched a collaboration with the El Paso Independent School District (EPISD) Migrant Program to provide summer programming for their students.

The El Paso Independent School District Migrant Program has played a key role in supporting migratory children and their families and ensuring that students receive a quality education. The program’s focus is to ensure that migratory students overcome hurdles related to curriculum, graduation requirements, or state academic content and student achievement standards that often result from the migratory lifestyle. As a district, EPISD aims to offer migratory children effective and engaging supplemental experiences from which they can grow and become critical thinkers and problem solvers.

Selected students from this program participated in multiple one-day camps focused on biology, chemistry, and forensic science. The camps were offered in a stimulating environment with engaging hands-on activities. Coordinator of Migrant Student Support, Ms. Angie Arsola states, “The camps were filled with engaging learning experiences and the teachers, staff and support always went the extra mile to make the experience fun and memorable. Parents and students were extremely pleased and grateful for the additional educational opportunity that was only offered to migratory students in EPISD.”

Professional and Public Programs’ Youth Programs and Camps strives to work with the El Paso community to provide unique learning opportunities in a fun and creative learning environment. “The parents felt that the classes were exciting and provided a different approach to learning where all students could engage and feel supported,” said Ms. Arsola. A parent of a Johnson Elementary migratory student said, “Mis hijos están felices en las clases de UTEP. Gracias por estas clases.” She also enthusiastically inquired about additional workshops for her children.
"The EPISD Migrant Education Program was incredibly pleased [with the results of the collaboration] and would enthusiastically recommend [Professional and Public Programs]. We will continue to seek all possible opportunities to continue to work in collaboration with [Youth Programs and Camps Manager] Mr. Montes and his team. We felt that the migratory students really benefited from this engaging experience and look forward to the continued partnership," said Ms. Arsola.

If you are a public or private school administrator who is interested in bringing these types of programs to your school, please email p3youth@utep.edu to set up a consultation.
