ACADEMIC DISMISSAL APPEAL FORM

Conditions of Approval

The plan of action should be developed via a collaboration between the student and the graduate program director. Both the program director and student must sign or approve the plan (e.g., via email confirmation). If the student is currently working on a thesis or dissertation, the thesis/dissertation advisor must also sign or approve the plan.

The plan must outline a clear path for the student to get back to a 3.0 GPA, including course(s) that should be taken in the upcoming semester and expected grades. If it will take more than one semester to raise overall GPA to 3.0 or greater, the plan must indicate the GPA that is required in the upcoming semester. It should also be clear to student that failure to raise GPA to 3.0 will remain on probation and may be dismissed if their progress in the semester did not meet the objectives.

If the student must complete other program requirements to maintain satisfactory standing in the program (e.g., propose thesis, finish within timeline allowed by degree, take and pass a certain course, etc.), these should also be in the plan. Attach the plan to this form before submitting to the Graduate School for approval.

You may use the spreadsheet below to help calculate how specific grades in future courses will affect the student's overall GPA. Use information from the Goldmine transcript (GPA Hours, Quality Points) to populate the required fields below. Course hours are the second number in the course number (e.g., SUBJ 5301, SUBJ 6401-Course hours: 3 and 4).
