Proposal Title: UTEP Core Curriculum Course Addition Proposal

The Chicano Studies Program proposes the creation of CHIC 2302 "Latina/o Presence in the U.S." for the Core Curriculum in section IV, Language, Philosophy and Culture, in the BA degree. The major goal of the course is to provide an avenue for lower-division students to learn early in their academic trajectory about the current and emerging Latino ethnicities in the U.S. The Southwest and border region is seeing an increased presence of immigrants from Central America, the Caribbean, and parts of South America. The growing presence and geographic spread of the Latina/o population in the U.S. indicates a need for its academic examination along key sociocultural dimensions. The course will strengthen the students' knowledge base of human diversity, enable the integration of the Latina/o experience in upper division courses, and, most importantly, meet the Core Objectives of the THECB 60x30TX Academic and Quality and Workforce for the Texas Core Curriculum.

The proposed course was successfully piloted three times as a UNIV 1301 with freshmen, with an average of 25 students per class. The Entering Student Program facilitated the piloting of the course to ensure CHIC 2302 would meet the content standards of the Texas Core Curriculum and the UTEP BA degree's Core Curriculum.

Consultation of the Units that have courses in the BA degree's Core Curriculum, Section IV, Language, Philosophy and Culture took place. Appended are the approvals by chairs/directors of said units, minus those who did not respond.

Core Curriculum Objectives

Critical Thinking Skills: CHIC 2302 focuses on the development of students' critical thinking skills by incorporating media analysis, research, and writing assignments in the course, such as podcasts, films, library research, and guest lectures by scholars and civic officials. A Poster session on key dimensions of Latina/o groups will be developed and presented by four-person teams.

Communication Skills: CHIC 2302 employs the construction of a writing portfolio, journal entries based on assignments on various Latina/o groups, extra-curricular event descriptions and a final assignment that consists of a Latino population comparative features poster session. The latter requires the development of an oral presentation in multimodal contexts, including material obtained from web sites and or constructed by the students.

Teamwork: CHIC 2302 meets this objective by requiring students to participate in a four-person team to generate a poster session proposal, perform an in-class review of the bibliography of the assignment edit, and provide feedback to peers throughout the project's development. The team presents the poster session to the class. Student teams are also required to lead one class discussion with questions and answers in the semester.

Personal Responsibility: CHIC 2302 emphasizes the responsibility of being a thorough and fair researcher with regard to primary and secondary research in the course assignments, including being accountable for their individual portion of the poster session in its class presentation. Students develop expertise in the ethical and legitimate identification and presentation of their individual research.

Social Responsibility: CHIC 2302 encourages students to teach and learn from other students via the Collaborative Instruction methodology employed in the course. The poster session teams require unit cohesion obtained via structured interaction that flows from cooperation, dialogue and critical interaction. Faculty monitor student group sessions to guide and mentor students into productive avenues of production.

Proposed Syllabus: Sample syllabus with assignments attached.

Course Assessment Plan

[Examples of the major assignments referenced for each category below are attached, following the syllabus pages]

Critical Thinking: Critical thinking skills assessed as the major component of the written and digital poster session projects by evaluating the quality of analysis (logic and reasoning), the use of textual evidence, research of secondary scholarly sources and how effectively the students synthesize the evidence in their own exposition. Student responses to fellow students are examined for the quality of feedback offered. Assignments pertaining to the assessment:

- Quizzes
- Extra-curricular activity reports
- Annotated Bibliography
- Library assignments
- Poster Session Presentation

Communication Skills: The strategies students use to persuade the audience through their writing and class presentations are evaluated with standardized rubrics. The rubrics gauge the projects' usage of grammar, structure and logos, the citation system required by the style manual employed, clarity of expression, and project organization. Assignments pertaining to the assessment:

- Team Poster Session Presentation
- Journal Entries
- Writing Portfolio
- Oral and written assignments

Teamwork: The assessment of teamwork incorporates several participatory activities throughout the semester. Teams are created at the start of the semester and each team must meet required deadlines according to the syllabus. Teams are evaluated on the quality of their collective product and on the feedback that team members provide their peers. At the end of the semester, individual team members provide an evaluation of the team's work ethic and performance in the semester. Assignments pertaining to the assessment:

- Team presentation bibliography
- In-Class Team Meetings Overseen by Instructor
- Poster Session Presentation

Personal Responsibility: Personal responsibility assessed primarily in the poster session project. The projects' evaluation centers on the appropriate use of sources, such as contextualization and attribution. The evaluation of personal responsibility rests on individual participation in the team project and required team meetings overseen by the instructor.

- Individual Team Member Presentation
- Annotated Bibliography Contribution
- Individual assignments
- Individual Library and Website Assignment evaluations

Social Responsibility: Social responsibility assessed primarily in the literary website assignment. The website is evaluated according to its accessibility to the target audience (freshmen students) and in relation to how well the content addresses that audience through effective written, aural, visual, and multimodal rhetorical strategies. Throughout the development of the project, teams will be required to consider the communal engagement of the website and its potential for the greater social good.

Course Description:

An examination of Latina/o culture and society. This course examines education, labor, politics, immigration, and language to better understand how Latina/os create distinct cultures and identities in the United States.

Student Learning Goals and Objectives

In this course students will:

- Develop the critical thinking and analytical skills necessary for effective communication both orally and written.
- Identify, analyze, and articulate the central themes in Latina/o community and identity formation.
- Identify and analyze differences and similarities among Latina/o experiences over time.
- Demonstrate their understanding of the concepts of gender, sexuality, race, and class by using them to identify experiences of privilege and inequality as well as collaboration and conflict, within and between Latina/o communities.
- Use an interdisciplinary approach to connect the past to the present in an effort to better understand the world around them and themselves as global citizens.

- Students will analyze the influence of the American Industrial Revolution, eugenics, nationalism, immigration, economics, politics, and culture had (and still has) on Latina/o diaspora.
- Students will think critically about resistance and push-back against racism and segregation in the public schools from marginalized communities prior to Brown v. the Board of Education.
- Compare and contrast: assimilation, acculturation, and multiculturalism.
- Engage theoretical implications of implicit marginalization of students via the intentional withholding or outright denial in resources, people, and monies to Chicana/o and Latino Students.
- Consider the weaponization of IQ-tests and standardized testing as a means to in qualify and quantify people's academic and economic opportunity and quality of life.
- How perceptions and perspectives about language are used to limit academic opportunity.
- Understand that marginalized communities like Chicana/o and Latina/o communities are not static and create their own agency for change.
- Critical analysis of socio-cultural barriers that isolate and disconnect communities from accessible education and related opportunities.
- As a member of society, there will be ample opportunity to see where you fit, if at all, in existing conversations regarding education, marginalization, and privilege.
- There are a few ground rules for discussions. Whether you are discussing in a group or as a class, please remember that the appeal of higher learning is that we can think and talk, maturely and responsibly, about topics like race, class, gender, and sexuality. Please make an effort to treat each other, and each other's contributions to class discussions, with respect.

Colleagues: This is to consult you on the proposed addition of a new CHIC course to the University Core Curriculum. Chicano Studies is proposing to add CHIC 2302 to the University Core Curriculum in order to address a salient demographic trend that are now impacting our region, the state and the nation. I'm referring to the growth of the Latina/o population, which aside from the Mexican origin population, now includes Central Americans, South Americans and people from the Caribbean, principally Puerto Rico. Students from the latter groups have frequently asked about UTEP offering courses that cover their presence in the U.S.

I am attaching a preliminary copy of the Course Add Form and a sample syllabus for your perusal.

We are piloting the course as UNIV 1301 this fall in order to demonstrate student interest and obtain student feedback in time for the submission of the course proposal to the L.A. Curriculum proposal.

Please let me know if the proposal is satisfactory and/or if you have any suggestions or concerns I should address before submitting it to the LA Curriculum Committee.

Your consideration of this request is appreciated.

Best,

Hi Dennis—it seems like a fine and important course, but I don't really know how to evaluate whether it should be in the core curriculum or not—I don't really know how that works.

Sam

Hi Jane: Thank you for your fast response. The course is designed to cover the other Latino groups as a chic 2302 course. The univ course is just the tool I'm using this semester to pilot the course. I will correct the errors you identified. I had asked the instructor to quickly modify the univ course syllabus into a more generic version for the approval process, hence the errors.

Other than that, does the course meet with your consent?

Best,

Dennis

Dear Dennis,

Thank you for giving me the opportunity to review the course materials for CHIC 2302. I have a couple of questions for you:

- 1- You stated that there had been requests by students for courses on the Latino presence in the United States, especially from the Caribbean and Puerto Rico. But CHIC 2302 wasn't designed to address these interests, right?
- 2- If this course is going to be a UNIV 1301, then it doesn't need a midterm. However, if it's going to retain the 2302 number, then I think it will need a midterm, don't you?

In terms of the syllabus itself, there are areas to improve:

- 1. Spelling: the title of the book Women Warriors, was misspelled.
- 2. Formatting: book titles and film titles go in italics, not double quotation marks; article titles are given between double quotation marks.
- 3. Grading Rubric: there is reference to a more detailed grading rubric that I think should be included in writing as part of the syllabus; secondly, the way that point values for quizzes and the like convert to letter grades must also be addressed. And lastly, there should be more information about how journals will be assessed.
- 4. The date of the final exam, December 119 [sic], 2018, must be corrected.

Thank you.

Sincerely, Jane E. Evans

Muchas gracias Gina! I'll get on the faculty member to make those changes. They were in the original draft but somehow they were left out in the first internal revision. I'll certainly add the book you suggested.

Can you please send me a separate email indicating you were consulted and hopefully with your concurrence that it deserves to be in that section of the core?

Good morning Dennis,

I have seen the proposal and the course syllabus. I suggest we review the syllabus and outline the learning goals and objectives for the course. I printed the syllabus and cannot locate them; this may raise questions about academic rigor and baseline knowledge for an introductory course.

I recommend adding the following book as an anchor for the course:

Harvest of Empire: A History of Latinos in America Paperback – May 31, 2011 by Juan Gonzalez - I read an earlier version and this gives students a good background to contextualize what follows in future courses. The book also connects with the final project titled Latinos in the U.S. Dr. Guillermina Gina Núñez-Mchiri Director of Women's and Gender Studies Associate Professor of Anthropology University of Texas, El Paso 500 W.
