PROFESSIONAL ORGANIZATIONS

American Kinesiology Association

Kinesiology is the academic discipline which involves the study of physical activity and its impact on health, human performance, society, and quality of life.

Energy Kinesiology Association

Energy Kinesiology is a term first used by Donna Eden in the early 1970’s. The Association of Specialized Kinesiology has recently adopted this name. Energy Kinesiology or simply Kinesiology can be thought of as a hands-on approach to wellness. Many believe it is the most effective stand-alone technology of the future in alternative medicine.

Touch for Health Kinesiology Association

Touch for Health Kinesiology Association is a non-profit, member run organization dedicated to empowering people to improve their health and well being through simple self-help techniques.

National Association for Kinesiology in Higher Education

The National Association for Kinesiology in Higher Education is an organization for professionals in higher education. Its purpose is to provide a forum for interdisciplinary ideas, concepts, and issues related to the role of kinesiology sub disciplines in higher education with respect for social, cultural, and personal perspectives.

American Sport and Education Program Education Center

"ASEP is committed to improving amateur sport by encouraging coaches, officials, administrators, parents, and athletes to embrace the 'athletes first, winning second' philosophy and by providing the education to put the philosophy to work."
–Rainer Martens, PhD, ASEP founder

National Strength and Conditioning Association

Founded in 1978, the NSCA has been serving its members by bridging the gap between science and application. Take an online tour of the NSCA’s legacy and learn about the association’s impact on strength and conditioning as both a practice and profession.
